

Art Underfoot

New designer manhole covers will be installed in February after a panel of judges chose the winning designs from 643 entrants in the city's Art Underfoot competition. Coast Salish artist Susan Point and her daughter Kelly Cannell won $2,000 for their manhole cover design of four tadpoles and four frogs. Their design will go over storm sewers that handle rainwater runoff. Jen Weih also won $2,000 for her design of what appears to be specks under a microscope. Her design will replace covers that go over sanitary sewer systems.

THE VANCOUVER SUN

WESTCOAST

SECTION

B

SUMAS PROJECT NOT DEAD YET | B7

NEWS

BC FERRIES IRKS SHIPBUILDERS | B2